A Westerner's Way.

A tall man, with a full beard the color of old gold, and a wide-brimmed hat such as is invariably associated with the denizens of the wild west, and wearing a suit of ready-made clothes with the shelf marks of an Omaha store plainly visible, got off the train as it reached the Northwestern depot, at Chicago, and had his gripsack checked for safe-keeping in the waiting-room.

"I'm goin' to take in the town, pardner," he confided to the man behind the counter, "and the grip might be unhandy like."

"Say, mister," said he of the checks, "mebbe you'd better leave that thar gun," pointing to a 44-caliber revolver, the down-pointing muzzle of which hung some inches below the tail of his short sack coat. "The perlice might take you in, and then you'd be fined $50, besides confirskatin' the shooter."

"P'rhaps you're right, pardner," said the westerner, after a moment's consideration. "I never been in a big town before, and ain't exactly fly on the ways of the people. You're sure I won't need it?"

"No, you won't need it," said the checkman, "leastways if you don't drink too much?"

"I never drink," said the newcomer, unstrapping the formidable weapon and handing it over.

Then he stepped out of the depot and walked east on Kinzie street, looking curiously at the buildings and the peculiar merchandise of that thoroughfare, and making up his mind that the trade in hides monopolized Chicago people. When he reached the corner of Clark street he glanced up and down admiringly at the crowded street, thronged with wagons, street cars and people. Setting his hat firmly on his head the stranger stopped a hurrying man and asked:

"Say, stranger!"

"Well, sir," said the other, stopping impatiently.

"Say, can you tell me where the business part of town is? I'm a stranger ——"

But the man had gone before the sentence had concluded.

"'Pers like they didn't tumble to innercent jokes, he said to himself. Then he looked across the street and saw the signs of the Chicago museum. "A show, hey? Well, I'll take that in sure." He bought a ticket and passed in, and was soon contemplating the pretty girls in the costumes of all nations. Round and round he walked, and all the time his wonder grew. He glanced furtively and bashfully at the beauties in their gorgeous and becoming custumes. "Wonder if they can talk United States?" he thought. Finally he found a post against which he could stand, and, thus braced, he pushed his hat brim out of the way and stared long and earnestly at one of the young ladies, who seemed to take his eye. The girl was fully concious of his admiring look, but like a well behaved girl, took no notice of it until after the space of some minutes, when the steady gate brought the color to her cheek and a half smile to her face, which she attempted to hide by quickly turning about. This was not lost to the keen eye of the western man, and several times he moved forward as if to speak to the girl, but each time he shrank back bashfully and resumed his first position. The girl became somewhat nervous. She attempted to dust off the front of her boot with a feather brush, but it flew from her fingers upon the floor. The western man sprang quickly forward and handed it to her with untaught grace.

"Thank you, sir," she said, with a a smile and a blush.

"Oh, can you talk American?" he asked.

"Yes, sir," she replied. "Why not?"

"Oh, I dunno; you wearing a furrin rig, you know."

"Yes, I am an American," she said.

"It's a mighty purty rig, anyhow," he said.

"Do you think so?"

"Yes. Do you stay here all the time?"

"No; I live at home. I'm only here for a couple of weeks."

"I'm a stranger in town," said he.

"Indeed."

"Yes; I live in Arizony."

"Is that far away?"

"Yes; it is lonesome out there sometimes."

"Why don't you live in the city?"

"'Cause I've got a ranche and a lot of cattle."

She looked at him with sudden respect, for she had heard of the western cattle kings.

"I was going east to see a gal," he said after a pause. "But I don't think I'll go now."

"Why not?"

"'Cause I've found one that suits me in Chicago."

"You're lucky," said the girl smiling at the simplicity of the man. "Who is she?"

"You."

"Oh, go on with your foolishness, you never saw me before."

"No," said he, "but I'm going to stay in Chicago and see you again. Fact is I want a wife. I'm a plain man. If you'll marry me, say so."

"This is so sudden, and I don't know you, and——"

"Never mind that. Where do you live?"

"No. — —— street."

"Father and mother living?"

"Father is dead. I live with mother."

"And you come here to make a little money toward paying the rent?"

"How did you know?"

"Never mind. I'm coming up to see you to-night. I can convice your mother that I am able to take care of you, and I've got letters to Chicago men that'll show who and what I am. If your mother will go along out I'll be glad to have her along. Anyway, I'm going to take you.

"You're very confident, seems to me," said the young lady, who had suddenly come to think a yellow beard handsome.

"Never mind," said the Arizonian. "Tie up your dog and leave the latch-string out to-night, for I'm coming, sure as thunder," and he walked away.

To-day there is a vacancy in the "Bazaar of Nations," for one of the prettiest girls has gone; and in a neat little cottage in the northern division an old lady and a girl are sewing for dear life on a serviceable bridal outfit.

A Pitcher of Blood.

'Half a pint of blood, please.'

'Come this way.'

The butcher led the way into the back of the store into a temporary shambles where a cow had just been knocked down and was having her throat scientifically cut.

In a few moments the small white pitcher was returned to the girl full of the smoking red liquid.

'How is M——this morning?'

'He is better and he says it's the blood is helping him.'

The girl went out with her pitcher of blood and the butcher picked up an ordinary glass, stepped back in the shambles and returned with it half filled with the liquid which was now of the consistence of thick cream.

'There are dozens of men and women in Detroit who drink blood. We used to serve a great many sustomers with it. Now we have only one.'

'What do you charge for it?'

'Nothing. We never sold a spoonful. Anyone is welcome to come here and drink it. We let the girl come with that pitcher because the old man for whom she gets it is dying and he won't take any other nourishment; taste it.'

'No, thanks.'

'It is like rich, warm milk; there is no taste or smell to it.'

Thus encouraged the representative of the Free Press took up the tumbler and swallowed a mouthful of the fluid it contained. It had a sweet, milkish, sickish taste, half of which was imagination and the other half b-l-o-o-d!

'The doctors advise it in some cases,' said the Jefferson avenue butcher; 'but with most folks who come here it is a tradition. They take it because some other member of the family took it.'

'Do healthy people ever take blood in this way?'

'Yes, occasionally; just as they would take a stimulant of any kind. Drinking blood won't make a fighter of a man. It isn't men that drink it as much as delicate, consumptive women. We drink it around the shop when we feel like it. A pint of blood is equal to a good lunch at any time.'—Detroit Free Press.

The new materials for the coming season are beginning to make their appearance, and are very stylish, especially the handsome embroidered cashmeres and the figured velvets, both of which promise to be very popular.—Paris letter in Peterson's Magazine.

Cleveland and Hendricks,

Democratic Candidates

FOR

AND

VICE PRESIDENT.

The Right Sentiments.

Feelings With Which Grover Cleveland Approached the Duties of the Governorship.

The following letter was written by Grover Cleveland to his brother on the day of his election to the Governorship of New York:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, Buffalo, Nov. 7, 1882.

MY DEAR BROTHER: I have just voted. I sit here in the Mayor's office alone, with the exception of an artist from Frank Leslie's newspaper, who is sketching the office. If mother was here I should be writing to her, and I feel as if it were time for me to write to some one who will believe what I write. I have been for some time in the atmosphere of certain success, so that I have been sure that I should assume the duties of the high office for which I have been named. I have tried hard, in the light of this fact, to properly appreciate the responsibilities that will rest upon me, and they are much, too much, underestimated. But the thought that has troubled me is: Can I well perform my duties, and in such a manner as to do some good to the people of the State? I know there is room for it, and I know that I am honest and sincere in my desire to do well, but the question is whether I know enough to accomplish what I desire.

The social life which seems to await me has also been a subject of much anxious thought. I have a notion that I can regulate that very much as I desire, and if I can I shall spend very little time in the purely ornamental part of the office. In point of fact, I will tell you, first of all others, the policy I intend to adopt, and that is to make the matter a business engagement between the people of the State and myself, in which the obligation on my side is to perform the duties assigned me with an eye single to the interest of my employers. I shall have no idea of re-election or of any higher political preferment in my head, but be very thankful and happy if I can well serve one term as the people's Governor. Do you know that if mother were alive I should feel so much safer? I have always thought that her prayers had much to do with my success. I shall expect you all to help me in that way. Believe me, your affectionate brother,

GROVER CLEVELAND.

The Fatal Blunder.

Mrs. Shabby-Genteel [in the train]—'Well, I am glad we are off at last. You attended to everything, didn't you, dear?'

Mr. S. G.—'Oh, yes. I telegraphed to Uncle Jake to meet us at the depot with the farm wagon and sent personals to all the papers saying 'Mr. and Mrs. Shabby-Genteel are still at Saratoga. That was all right, wasn't it?'

'Of course, but I was referring to the house. You know some of our neighbors, who have been off all summer, will be running in about this time to look after their houses and——'

'Oh! That is all right. They will see our front windows all boarded up and the door knobs almost black with tarnish.'

'Yes; I noticed that bottle of tarnish worked beautifully. By the way, where did you buy it?'

'At the hardware store where I got the nails.'

'What!'

'Where I got the nails.'

'For the front window boards?'

'Yes.'

'Oh, mercy. Our social reputation is ruined.'

'Ruin me! How can it be?'

'Oh! you horrid old goosey gander, you.'

'Why, Mariah!'

'Fresh, new nails along side of tarnished door knobs! Oh, you—you, I thought any fool would know enough to use rusty ones.'

Embroideries and lace are still much used, but will be superseded by heavier adornments later in the season.—Paris letter in Peaterson's Magazine.

Our Nerves.

The persons who are not familiar with the structure of the human body can best obtain rational ideas of the nervous sytem by comparing it to the electric apparatus in common use for communicating between distant points. Herein the nerve centres, the brain, spinal cord and nervous ganglions are regarded as batteries of telegraph offices and the nerves as the wires that complete the circuit. Insulated wires, such as are used for submarine telegraph cables, illustrate especially well the distribution of the nerve elements. The life-work of these organs is not shown by post-mortem studies, consequently we do not know what changes, if any, occur in the nerves during the transit of nervous impulses.

Many persons appear totally unconscious of the existence of their nerves and these persons are very fortunate, for on all sides complaints of nervousness are heard and the extraordinary prevalence of nervous disorders nowadays scarcely has escaped the notice of even a casual observor. Nervousness is essentially a loss of power in the nerves and according to Beard, the author of "American Nervousness," this were much better expressed nervelessness. The symptoms of this are well enough known to most people. At all events the persons who are restless, who have flushes of heat, whose heart palpitates on the slightest excitement and those who have twitching of the muscles of various parts of the body and divers other vague and transient sensations of like character, invariably call themselves "nervous," likely enough for want of a better word.

The cause of the complaints just named have been detailed at great length. Inheritance, indigestion, atmospheric conditions and the exactions of modern life are, however, worthy of especial note in this particular. Inherited nervousness is explained readily enough by the old saying, "like father, like son," and it is not inherited this disposition, but who was so unfortunate as to be surrounded by nervous persons, might easily be inclined that way.

How indigestion may cause nervousness is well shown by the following from a well-known writer on the subject, who said: "Though there may be much force in the nervous system, yet if digestion be clogged and waste matters suffered to accumulate in the digestive apparatus and circulate through the nervuos system, the amount of force generated and usable will be much diminished. Under these circumstances we may supply food and the best of food in any amount and the person will still be feeble." "We are nervous," says the same writer, "because the rapid evaporation in our dry outdoor air and in our overheated rooms heightens the rapidity of the processes of waste and repair in the brain and nervous system and because of the exhausting stimulation of alternations of torrid heat and frigid cold, and this nervousness is increased by the stress of poverty, the urgency of finding and holding means of living, the scarcity of inherited wealth and the just desire of making and maintaining fortunes."

The Church of the Latter Day Saints commonly known as mormons, of Fall River, Mass., is an active organization, and is busily pushing its missionary operations. Its membership at present is 125, one third of whom are native-born, the rest mainly of English origin. Elder John Gilbert, who resides in Fall River, is the general missionary agent for Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts. The society at Plainville, in the vicinity of New Bedford, is reported to be very flourishing and mostly composed of native-born members, and the one at Little Compton, R. I., is also composed mostly of the same class. In that section the success of the saints is reported very encouraging, baptisms by immersion being frequent. These people are monegamists and do not harmonize with the Mormons in Utah.—Boston Post.

Marriage Now and Then.

Some Modern Ideas Contrasted With Those of Bygone Times.

"The thing can't come off," said a young girl loudly in a crowded room, lately, "until after Lent. It's not the style at all to think of anything in Lent but prayers and church. But it will come off on Easter Monday. That is if my dresses are finished in time. It all depends on that."

It was not a journey or a ball that she was talking of, but her marriage; the most solemn crisis of a woman's life, the time when all her trust in God, and love for the home she is leaving come to light, if ever.

"Well, I declare," she continued, "the whole thing's a horrid bore, and so I tell Jem. Since our engagement was announced, I can't accept an invitation without him; he has to hang around the house all the time, or all the gossips tongues will be wagging. I'm just marrying him to get rid of him. He'll have to attend to business when he has me to keep!

"Then here are eight bridesmaids, all fighting about their bonnets and the color of their flowers, and I have to settle it all! And Susy Jackson got three hundred wedding presents, and that means three hundrd letters of thanks to write! She wrote sixty-odd the morning she was married, and was completely fagged out. Then there are all the duplicates to exchange afterward. Oh, I tell you, getting married is a big job, and a horrid bore!"

Perhaps not many young girls would talk as freely or as coarsely as this one, but how many of them regard marriage from precisely the same point of view? It is a matter of presents, of bridesmaids, of gowns, a stately show at church, and somebody to pay their bills afterward.

The recent unveiling of Chief Justice Marshall's statue in Washington brought forth a pretty, tender story of the great jurist's courtship of a Virginia girl while she was scarcely more than a child, in her father's home. How jealously the sacred secret of "the engagement" was guarded while she was being educated and fitted for her position as wife and mother. How grandparents and sisters and cousins brought their simple gift, with hearts full of love and blessing for her; how she went at last, shy, tender, blushing, from her mother's arms to her husband and was cherished by him, with a chivalry of devotion, for more than fifty years. When God called her, the vacancy in his life was more than he could bear, and he soon followed her into that higher life where they cannot be parted.

Marriage comes into almost every woman's life, and every woman naturally and rightly looks forward to it as the fulfillment of her high est work in the world. But how is she to look forward to it? There are two ways, the old and the new.

Which will she choose?

Meteors by the Milion.

The Earth Now Undergoing a Fierce Bombardment by the Stray Shells of Space.

From the Boston Herald.

The earth is now passing through the stream of August meteors, generally seen in the north-western sky after midnight. A single observer under favorable circumstances sees from six to eight meteors an hour. But he sees only one fifth or one-sixth of those visible above his horizon. The total number therefore visible in an hour at a given station is about thirty-five. If we should multiply this by twenty-four we should get over eight hundred as the number visible at a given point of the earth's surface in an entire day, provided that clouds or sunlight did not interfere with the observation. From a single point on the earth's surface, however, we see only a small portion of the atmospheric envelope, and it is within this atmospheric envelope that the meteors become visible. The total numbe visible over the whole earth in a day would be upward of 10,000 times the number visible at a single station, or 10,000 multiplied by 800 equals 8,000,000 as the number of meteors falling every day to the earth, which would, in the absence of the sun, moon and clouds, be visible to the naked eye.

Fortunately for us, these bodies are not very large, and a protective atmosphere interposes between us and their tumultuous assault. Were it otherwise everything on the surfaces of the earth would be battered down to a common level. For the most part these bodies are dissolved in the upper regions of the atmosphere and decend imperceptibly as meteoric dust, a deposit of which has sometimes been found upon the tops of mountains.

The August meteors are usually of an orange color, move very rapidly and commonly leave streaks which last for one or more seconds. These streaks are highly useful in enabling us to fix the radiant point with precision.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

There are two thousand school teachers in Arkansas, eight hundred of whom are colored.—Pittsburgh Post.

Penny dinners for school children have been instituted under the direction of the London School Board.

Both Houses of the Swedish Parliament have passed a bill closing public houses on Sunday throughout Sweden.

An article in the Churchman by Bishop Coxe, of Western New York, concludes in favor of giving the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States the name of the Apostolic Church in America.

An interesting Sunday-school convention was held in Waterbury, Conn., recently. It appeared from the report that in the State there were 1,037 schools; 18,152 officers and teachers; 134,649 scholars. Total membership, 152,801.

Underlying the forty-one acres within the enclosure of Girard College walls, Philadelphia, there are 3,500 feet of tunnel, intersecting almost every part of the grounds. At a distance of one hundred feet apart there are gas gets, which are lighted by electricity. The tunnels are used for the pipes which carry the steam and hot water to the eleven buildings on the ground.—Philadelphia Press.

At the annual meeting of Friends recently held in England, Mr. Rufus King, of Baltimore, obtained the sanction of the society for religious work in the south of France, Mount Lebanon, Australia, Tasmania, and New Zealand. Mr. Isaac Sharpe returned his certificate after a seven years' mission, and gave encouraging accounts of his work in Africa, Australia, and the adjoining islands, Madagascar, the United States, Canada, Indian Territory, and Mexico. Mr. Sharpe's certificate was renewed for work in Norway.

A comparative statement of the various colleges, complied by Mr. Taylor Payne, shows that Harvard has thirty-two professors and twenty-three lecturers, instructors, tutors, etc., making a total of fifty-five. Princeton come next with twenty-eight professors and six lecturers, tutors, etc., making a total of thirty-four. Yale follows with twenty professors, and ten lecturers, tutors, etc., total thirty. Then follows Columbia with a total of twenty-nine; Amherst, twenty-four, and Brown and Wesleyan nineteen each.

Extravagence in Living.

Such crimes as those of Ferdinand Ward, while they spring often from depravity, are oftener the result of mere weakness of character. Thackeray in many of his minor sketches constantly draws the portrait of the man and woman whose means are not equal to the style of living which they desire; and they desire it not for itself; but only because others have it. They are not strong and steady enough to be content with that which they can command and afford, and the means to secure the other must somehow be obtained. Thackeray puts the fact in the simplest and most amusing form. The young couple must give a dinner, and instead of the joint of lamb and the glass of beer which is the only repast to which they have the moral right to invite a friend—if, indeed, the beer may be morally permitted—they must needs prepare a feast which they cannot honorably afford, and for the sole reason that other people who can afford it give such feasts.

It is this doing a little more, or a great deal more, than the doer can honestly afford, which leads to the swindles of Wall Street. Living in a house too expensive for his means, maintaining it accordingly, dressing as his richer neighbors dress, doing in all things as they do—it is this weak compliance which is hidden in the fine houses, and drives to the Park in fine equipages, which presently ends in Ludlow Street Jail and hopeless disgrace. Yet it is the poorest kind of competition, because the little imitator might see even with his dull eyes that there must always be a few persons who can "do the thing" better than all the rest, and without feeling it. The bull frog may swell until he bursts, but he can not rival the ox.

This is the tendency which all sensible people—and a great many otherwise sensible people are swept away by it—ought quietly to resist. The power of individual example is immense, but it is often underestimated by the individual. "My vote is of no consequence, but, since you wish it, I will vote," said a man to his neighbor, and the right candidate was elected by a majority of one. The family which in the midst of a saturnalio of luxury and extravagence refuses to take part in it, and holds to a simple, moderate, temperate way, is diminishing the supply of Ferdinand Wards and Wall Street panics.

ADAM HOY, subject to the decision of the district convention.

Hon. A. G. CURTIN, subject to the decision of the congressional district convention.

In last week's JOURNAL we published a complete report of the proceedings of the Democratic county Convention, giving the names of the nominees for the various offices. For want of time and space we then failed to make editorial mention of the candidates.

Hon. Adam Hoy was nominated by acclamation for President Judge of the 49th Judicial District. Mr. Hoy is well known in his district, as well as throughout the greater part of the state. He is at present serving that office under an appointment by the Governor, and since on the bench has proved himself fully able, impartial, courageous and fearless. As a jurist his record is irreproachable.

His friendly disposition has endeared him to all with whom he has come in contact, and if the District nomination be awarded him, his popularity will be exhibited in the fact that he is stronger than his party throughout the District.

Hon. A. G. Curtin, present member of Congress was also nominated by acclamation and in such a spirit as to show the respect and confidence that the people of Centre county have for him. Words fail us to express what in justice is due to the great war Governor. Suffice to say that in looking over the list of great men in our congressional District, and seeking a candidate to fill that office according to the general requirements we always find Hon. A. G. Curtin at the head. His record as a public servant, is pure and untarnished, and his nomination (which means his election) will give general satisfaction.

Hon. Chester Munson at present associate Judge, by appointment by Gov. Pattison, is a citizen of Philipsburg and while on the bench has rendered satisfaction. His appearance and character are such as to make him a very fit Judge.

John A. Woodward, of Howard township is one of the nominees for assembly. Mr. Woodward is a farmer by occupation, a gentleman of education and experience. He has the qualifications and ability for a good representative and will make an honorable record.

Leonard Rhone of Potter township is the other nominee for assembly, and is well known in Centre county as also over the entire state. Being likewise a farmer by occupation, a friend of the workingman, and a man of education and ability. He has since his connection with the Democratic party acted honestly and openly with the same, and will make one of the best representatives that Centre county has had at Harrisburg for a number of years. His canvass for the delegates of the various townships and boroughs has been one of the most honorable ever made in this county.

Miles Walker from Ferguson township, the present clerk of the commissioners' office is the nominee for Sheriff. Mr. Walker is a young man of good character, fine intellectual qualifications, genial disposition and good business tact. In the position he has held as clerk to the commissioners he has had intercourse with a large portion of the voters of the county, and by his gentle manners and prompt attention to business has won the confidence of the people, hence his deserving success.

Robert G. Brett of Ferguson township received the nomination for Prothonotary. Important as that nomination may be, the convention could not have found a better man that is better qualified in every respect for the position. Mr. Brett is a farmer by occupation, a gentleman fully qualified for the important position, possessing a good character, courteous disposition and a spirit af true democracy

James A. McClain present Register and Frank P. Bible Recorder have both been renominated by acclamation. Both these gentlemen have been good and faithful officials, and according to party rules will again be triumphantly elected.

Charles Smith of Bellefonte received the nomination for county Treasurer on the first ballot. Mr. Smith has been a soldier during the late war and has lost an arm in the cause of his country. He has been a faithful worker in the democratic party, and the nomination was justly due to him. He will fill the office with credit to himself and the people.

A. J. Greist and John Wolf present democratic Commissianers have been renominated. Concerning these two it is needless to say much. They have been tried, and found faithful and just in managing the finances of the county. Their renomination on first ballot has proved that their efficient service has been appreciated by the people of the county. They will poll a full vote.

Solomon Peck of Walker and Mr. Dinges from Boalsburg are the nominees for Auditors, both are fully qualified to fill the position and will without doubt be vigilant in the discharge of the duties of that important office.

THE ticket has been honestly, and fairly nominated. The candidates are all good men, honest democrats, and fully qualified for the various offices, and it now becomes the duty of every democrat in the country to allow personal disappointments and petty differences to pass away wth the smoke of the convention and all join in and roll up such a majority for the county, state and national ticket that will manifest the true democratic spirt of old Centre.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

The American Policy.

In connection with much other discourse upon the distinguishing traits and qualifications of the Republican candidate, we hear much about his American policy. This is a phrase that is likely to confuse some. Interpreted by the light of certain facts in our political history it would mean a policy by which those born in other countries should be virtually proscribed, that is, not admitted to equal participation in public affairs under any circumstances. It might even be construed to go beyond that and extend the proscription to men on account of their religion, as in the case of the Madigan circular which, we believe, had Mr. Blaine's unqualified approval. But when we see the cordial reception that the idea of this American policy gets in certain quarters, we are puzzled to reconcile it with the American policy of a quarter of a century or more ago. When in a dynamiter's Congress James G. Blaine is taken up and approved because he will inaugurate an American policy, we are safe in concluding that a radically different idea has displaced the one that used to wear this name and title. We get a little light by hearing others say that Mr. Blaine would give us an aggressive policy, a vigorous policy. There is a certain kind of aggressive policy that we would like to see instituted, but this is not the kind that is expected from the plumed knight. We would dearly like to see four years of aggression against the rings and corrupt combinations with which our public service is honeycombed, but judging the future by the past we are fifty-fold, at least, more likely to get that wholesome and beneficent aggression from Grover Cleveland than from James G. Blaine. It should not be the policy of the American people to stir up strife with foreign powers, and we know very well that at the present time it is not. Anything of that sort would be more distinctively a European than an American policy. It has been a well-known device of rulers in the Old World, when they found their subjects growing discontented under their tyrannies and exactions, to quarrel with neighboring powers upon some petty pretexts, and by arousing National sentiment cause the people to forget their grievances. We are unable to see much difference between this policy and that to which it is proclaimed Mr. Blaine will give his early attention if elected President. In other words he is going to stir things up, not by showing and relieving what has been wrong at home, but by meddling with the business of others, gratifying the green, the curiosity and the spirit of adventure which it is easy to make an active force under a spirited Jingo policy. He would turn the thought of American citizens away from the debauchery by which their public service is now tainted, to preparing debauchery of a new and seductive kind. He made some progress in this direction when President for six months before, and the smell of guano, still lingers about our state-craft for that brief record. What would he do if given the other that he covets?—Boston Statesman.

The Naturalization Law.

OCTOBER 4th will be the LAST DAY to be naturalized in time for election this year.

Bear in mind that five years' residence in this country is in all cases required of foreign born citizens to be naturalized. One year's residence in the State of Pennsylvania immediately preceding the application is required. (The one year's residence in the State will be included in the five years' residence in the United States.)

Declaration of intention may be made any time after arrival in this country; but at least two years must have elapsed between the time of declaration, and the application for final papers.

It must be borne in mind that naturalization alone is not sufficient to qualify one to vote; although one can be naturalized up to within one month of the election; yet he must be registered at least two months before the election, and have paid a State or county tax at least one month before the election. Registration is an absolute prerequisite to the payment of tax, without which no one can vote.

To those about to be naturalized: (1.) Be sure you are registered not later than September 4. (2.) Be sure you have paid a State or county tax not later than October 4. (3.) Be sure to procure your naturalization papers not later than October 4.

There is nothing to prevent one, who has complied with the law as to residence, from being naturalized at any time in the year, but to qualify one to vote on November 4, it is absolutely necessary that he be naturalized not later than October 4.

MINOR PAPERS. When the applicant resided in the country at least three years next preceding his arrival at the age of twenty-one he is entitled to naturalization without a previous declaration of intentions: Provided, he has resided in the United States five years, and in the State of Pennsylvania one year immediately preceding his application.

VOTING ON FATHER'S PAPERS. The children of persons who have been duly naturalized, under any law of the United States being under the age of twenty-one years at the time of the naturalization of their parents, shall, if dwelling in the United States be considered as citizens thereof. They are citizens by virtue of the statute of the United States and are not required to take any proceedings to entitle them to the rights of citizenship.

VOUCHERS. On applying for final papers one voucher, who must be a citizen of the United States, is required. None is required on declaration of intention.

Chronic Ulcers and Catarrh.

Mrs. Christian Zelle, aged sixty-three years, of Carondelet, St. Louis, Missouri, had a chronic ulcer on her leg which had been running for forty-three years. To use her own language, she had "tried all the doctors," but without perceptible benefit. Two of the most noted of this city advised her, as the only alternative from death, to have the leg amputated below the knee. She was troubled with an intolerable itching sensation, which only gave way to a distracting pain, which made death her daily wish. She could not sleep or rest. On March 21, this year, she commenced using Dr. Hartman's PERUNA, and to-day the leg is entirely healed, and the thankful old lady says she has slept more during the last three months than she did in the previous forty-three years.

Miss Alice Brady, of East St. Louis, Illinois, suffered from catarrh ophthalmia for five years. On April 27 she began treatment under Dr. Hartman. For a year before she was a patient of two of the best known oculists of this city, but they signally failed to help her. After one month under Dr. Hartman and his PERUNA, her eyes have almost entirely healed, and, according to her own statement, he has done more for her in this short space of time than the oculists did in the previous whole year. PERUNA, of course, did it.

Miss Annie Baker, First Avenue, Milwaukee, writes: "I take great pleasure in recommending PERUNA. For years I have suffered from Asthma. I was induced to try PERUNA. It promptly relieved the paroxysms, and its continued use renders their recurrence less and less frequent. I am confident it will cure me completely."

Walker Brothers, druggists, Batavia, O., write: "DR. S. B. HARTMAN, Columbus, O., Dear Sir: Some two weeks ago I had a very peculiar case, and after a few questions were answered, I came to the conclusion it was catarrh of the stomach of the worst kind, of ten years' standing. The patient had consulted every physician far and near. I persuaded her to try your PERUNA and MANALIN. She had been having spasms every three or four days, and the fifth dose kept them off, and they have not returned since."

W. M. Griffith, Ashland, Ky., writes: "The large chronic ulcers of fifteen months' standing, are entirely healed. The swelling, pain and itching have all subsided, the leg is healed, and I am perfectly well. PERUNA is a wonderful remedy."

All kinds of Drugs carried in our drug department. Prescriptions filled by experienced salesmen. Also a full line of Patent Medicines always on hand.

All summer goods such as Light Shawls, Lap Robes, Fine Lawns and many other articles too numerous to mention sold AT COST.

A full line of Rubber Goods just received, which will positivily be sold at the very lowest market figures.

We carry a full line of Canned Fruit which we are selling off at ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

During this pleasant season we have always a full supply of Fresh Green Groceries, such as cabbage, Tomatoes, Melons, Roasting Ears, Peaches, Apples, etc.

We can also accommodate customers with good Country Lard, Sugar Cured Hams and splendid Shoulders.

Pure Apple Juice Vinegar just received from New York. The best made.

Remember—Country Produce buys goods just as cheap as cash and we always pay the highest home market prices for produce.

The question arises, "Why we are selling goods so low?" We answer—First, because we bought the stock at a figure which enables us to sell low and still have a reasonable profit. Secondly, we want to make room for an immense fall stoch. Thirdly, because we buy all our goods for cash, and consequently get our goods cheaper than parties who buy on credit. We give our customers the benefit of the discounts made by cash purchases and all this together enables us to consistently keep up the reputation of the BARGAIN STORE.

N. B. Our goods are always fresh, as our drayage man takes them directly from the cars and at once delivers them at our store.

Very respectfully,
D. S. KAUFFMAN & Co.

—NO ONE, better than the mothers, knows the amount of persuasion, threatenings and force required to induce the children to take, when necessary, a dose of the nauseating, sickening worm syrups; and no one more highly appreciates the virtues of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. There is nothing in the shape of vermifuge that can compare with them. Don't be deceived. Take no other. Money refunded to dissatisfied buyers.

—The grand encampment just held at Bellefonte will leave an impression for good in favor of the Grand Army, and will never be forgotten by those who were eye-witnesses and participators. This order is one of the noblest in our land and binds together in fraternal love, as with a golden cord, the "boys" who "touched elbows" in the "days of auld lang syne."

Bellefonte had on its best festive dress and had opened its doors of hospitality as wide as possible making the many soldiers and visitors feel at home "from the word go." We believe the encampment has eclipsed anything ever witnessed in the county.

—SNAKE STORY.—A correspondent writing from Boonville says:

Last Friday some girls went to the mountain to pick huckleberries. The youngest of the girls seated herself on a large stone to rest, when one of the dogs came sneaking around and happened to see a large copperhead snake. Taking hold of it he pulled it out from under the stone, on which the little girl sat. John Castetter went to their assistance, killing four large copperhead snakes. The largest measured about three feet. The rest were not quite so large. Both dogs were bitten badly, and the little girl had a narrow escape.—Clinton Dem., Aug. 14th.

REAPER DEATH.—It becomes our sad duty this week to record the death of one of our younger citizens, who was much respected by the community and dearly beloved by his surviving family. Mr. B. F. Miller died at his residence on North street, last Friday morning, after having been prostrated by sickness for over ten months. Deceased was a painter by trade and always carried the name of an industrious and upright citizen. The bereaved family have our sincere sympathy.

The funeral services were held on Sunday forenoon in the U. B. church, Rev. Herald officiating and was largely attended by relatives and friends.

—Instead of campmeeting our Evangelical friends will hold a Bushmeeting in the grove, in front of the Green Grove church, on Saturday. Aug. 23rd, at 2 o'clock, p.m. with a quarterly conference. Rev. J. M. Ettinger, P. E. of the district will preside and preach in the evening at 7½ o'clock. On Sunday, the 24th, at 9 o'clok, a. m. there will be a general experience meeting, and at 10 o'clok preaching by the Elder, followed by the Lord's Supper. In the afternon at 2½ o'clock a special service will be held for the children and young people. Preaching in the evening and likely several evenings during the week. A cordial invitation to attend is extended to all lovers of the Lord.

—PETERSON'S MAGAZINE for September opens with a perfectly idyllic steel-engraving, "In Arcadia; 'Guess Who It Is?'" The double-sized fashion-plate is also from steel, colored by hand. Mrs. Lucy H. Hooper is "Peterson's" fashion correspondent in Paris: the only one, we believe, who keeps a correspondent there, hence the fashions are always the latest and most stylish. The stories in this number are unusually good, even for "Peterson," and range from love stories like "Lord Ayalon" to comic ones like "Juba of the Wake," and tragic ones like "Creole Blossoms." How such a magazine can be supplied for only two dollars a year, and much less to clubs, is a miracle; we can only explain it by its enormous circulation. Specimens are sent gratis to get up clubs with. Address CHAS. J. PETERSON, No. 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

—Mr. John Kerstetter, Jr., still makes a business of doing special jobs at carpentry. John is really an expert at the business and has large experince, both in making out plans, specifications and drawings, as well as a practical workman. People who entrust their work into his hands can safely rely on having it done in best style at the lowest prices. tf

—Our band during their stay at the G. A. R. encampment at Bellefonte, tendered a serenade at P. Gray Meek's residence, to which the ladies of the house responded with the gift of very dainty button-hole bouquets besides a beautiful large boquet. The boys naturally felt highly honored, but being about to start for Snow Shoe City, where they expected to be employed in all the dust and heat, they concluded to go without the bouquets and there by save the little gems from wilting and take them home in a good condition. This fact accounts for the appearance of the band without the flowers.

—TESTIMONIALS many times are cut from the whole cloth, and for every one voluntarely given in praise of a meritorious article an unscrupulous and dishonest manufacturer can write up a dozen for his worthless products; but the following card from the traveler of Sower, Potts & Co., a publishing house known in almost every state in the Union, is so emphatic and to the point that we cannot refrain from giving it in evidence:

"Georgetown, Pa.

LAID IN ASHES.

A Sweeping Conflagration in the town of Northeast—Many Buildings Destroyed.

ERIE, Pa, Aug. 13.—About three o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the drug store of Brookins & Flemming, at Northeast, in this county, and spread rapidly. In reply to a call for assistance a steamer was sent by the Erie fire department. It was several hours before the fire could be got under control, and the business portion of the town is now in ashes. Among the blocks destroyed are Towns', Loomis', Hall's, Belknap's, Union and the Hayne's House. These and the Presbyterian church were mostly fine brick buildings, built since the fire of 1871 when this same district was burned over. Among those burned out are: The First National bank, Short, Blaine & Gould's bank, Stockton's jewelry store, Turel's grocery, Logan's shoe store, Ingall's jewelry store, Loomis' harness shop, Selkridge's hardware and grocery, Hayne's hotel and clothing house, Hammond's crockery store, Smiley & McDonald's grocery, Town's dry goods store, Loomis & Sullivan's boot and shoe store, Damon's dry goods store, Halcomb's meat market, Greer's dry goods store, the Opera House, Ross' drug store, Belknap & Hitchcock's grocery, Butt's cigar store and some small shops. Over two-thirds of the business portion of the town is destroyed, including the best buildings in the place.

The total loss is estimated at $200,000 and the total insurance at $85,000.

A Bear that Bolted.

A man named Ed. Wilson was brought into the Sister's Hospital on Tuesday from a camp in the timber beyond Gloster to be treated for injuries received by falling from a tree into which he had been chased by a wounded bear. The way it occurred was this: He and another man were chopping wood in the timber west of Gloster. While so engaged Wilson looked up and saw a huge bear placidly contemplating them from a distance of about fifty yards. The bear was sitting upright, with its 'arms' apparently folded, and seemed much interested in the manner of cutting and splitting cord-wood as if it might have some notion of going into the business itself. When described the bear was standing perfectly still, showed no signs of hostility and was simply and only an interesting spectator.

The wise thing for the men to have done under the circumstances would have been to leave the bear alone. So thought Wilson's companion and he said as much. But Wilson thought differently. He had a Winchester rifle and, noticing that the bear had a white spot in the centre of his breast just the right size for a nice mark, he said he believed he would take a shot at it. The other advised him not to do it and became suddenly conscious that he was wanted at camp. Wilson looked at the bear again. It still sat motionless and the white mark on the breast looked so tempting that, without more ado, he raised his gun, aimed and fired. But instead of hitting the white, which would have been a death shot, the bullet struck the bear in the shoulder. The wound did not cripple the animal much, but served to suddenly enkindle in its breast an eager desire to eat a wood chopper.

The next thing Wilson remembers he and his companion were doing the great tree-climbing act, with the bear within smelling distance of their heels. Wilson, in his excitement, climbed upon a limb, which was too weak to bear his weight. The limb broke and he fell. The distance to the ground was about thirty feet and he came down bang on top of the bear, which on account of its wound, had been unable to climb the tree. The jolt which the bear had received from the one hundred and seventy pounds of falling mortality was to it a new feature in man-hunting and it startled the animal so that it did not wait for further particulars, but fled in great alarm and soon disappeared in the woods. —Helena Independent.

Woman's Sixth Sense.

Here is a singular instance, says the Boston Courier, of the working of that subtile, fine, sixth sense, which is apt to effect women more than men, and which is so mysterious in character that we often incline to deny its existence at all. A lady sat sewing quietly in her sitting-room, and in an inner chamber the nurse had just put the baby to sleep and laid her in her basinette. As the nurse came out of the chamber she said to her mistress:

'The little thing is asleep for three hours, ma'am, I'll warrant.'

The nurse went down stairs, and for about a minute the mother sewed on. Suddenly a desire seized her to go and take the sleeping child from its crib.

'What nonsence!' she said to herself. 'Baby is sound asleep. Nurse just put her down. I shall not go.'

Instantly, however, some power, stronger even than the last, urged the mother to go to her baby; and after a moment, she arose, half vexed with herself, and went to her chamber. The baby was asleep in her little bed, safely tucked in with soft white and pink blankets. One small hand was thrown above the little brown head. It was half open, the exquisite fingers slightly curved, and the palm as rosy as the depths of a lovely shell.

'My baby!' whispered the mother, adorning the little sleeper as mothers will. 'My own, little baby!'

She bent over suddenly a third time, impelled by that mysterious force which was controlling her, and, for no apparent reason, took the sleeping baby in her arms and went swiftly into the other room. The had scarcely crossed the threshold when a startling sound caused her to look back. Through a stifling cloud of thick gray dust she saw that the ceiling above the baby's cradle had fallen, burying the heaps of rosy blankets, and lying heaviest of all upon the spot where, but for her mystic warning, her little child would even now be lying.

Was a Liar.

'So you struck the man because he called you a liar?' said the police judge.

'Yes, sir.'

'From which I am to infer that you were not a liar?'

'Oh, no, I was a liar and am yet. If I had not been a liar, I should have paid no attention to the fellow's remarks. Truth is so scarce, judge, that when I hear it, I can't keep down my enthusiasm.'

Fashion-Hints from Peterson's Magazine for September.

All skirts fall flat in front, and are puffed at the back; too much tournure, however, is in bad taste.—Peterson's Magazine.

Bonnets are nearly all small, close to the head, except in front, where many of them come up to a point.—Peterson's Magazine.

The hair, in Paris, is worn very high, with the puffs a little on one side, the opposite side being filled in with bows of ribbon and aigretts, according to circumstances.—Peterson's Magazine.

Long Swedish kid gloves are still worn for visiting, dinner, and evening parties. They are no longer worn over sleeves, however, for out-of door customs, but are thrust under the sleeves.—Peterson's Magazine.

Sashes and belts are coming largely into vogue. Pointed cointuries of velvet are much employed on dresses having trimmings of velvet.—Paris letter in Peterson's Magazine.

Boston has a man who has gone mad, according to the explanation offered by a friend, through making a chart of the marriage relations of popular actors and then trying to correct it for publication.

Velvet bands, running around the underskirt of a dress, are very fashionable; they show, at regular intervals, under long plaited strips of the material, or under the curved draperies of the overdress.—Paris letter in Peterson's Magazine.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs, then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.

The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.

BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.

DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
